

Bartlett Papers (1749 – 1796)

MSS: # 031

Processed by: Rebekah Connell, December 2020

Volume: 3 boxes (1.251 linear feet)

Abstract:

This collection contains the financial, legal, business, and personal papers of Captain William Bartlett, a Beverly merchant and wharf owner who worked under General Washington as a naval agent.

Collection Creator:

Captain William Bartlett (1745-1809)

Provenance:

The collection originates from the Estate of William Bartlett, January 10, 1754.

Processor's Note:

Originally, the Bartlett Papers were organized in a series of folders divided among three boxes. Previous processors had labeled the folders with the span of years covered in each. There was some evidence of organization and order, but for the most part, there was no clear intellectual order to the collection as a whole. Documents were sometimes grouped together by year; other groupings appeared to be thematic or person-related. Overall, the records were very intermixed.

When preparing to create this finding aid, I chose to rearrange the collection into series, separating out family and legal papers as well as papers relating to Bartlett's work as a naval agent under General Washington. The remainder of the collection, consisting of financial documents, was arranged in chronological groupings (which then became sub-series). Within these groupings, the records largely remained in their original order as they were found in the folders. When creating the sub-series, I looked for "natural" divisions in the records rather than distributing them evenly by year, often using the original folders as a guideline. Essentially, when a distinct chronological order was not clear, the principle of original order was followed. Undated items were largely kept in their original locations; when this was not possible due to the rearrangement of surrounding items, they were placed in a unique sub-series for undated records.

Conservation:

All items in this collection are paper-based and kept in acid-free folders. Many individual items have been placed into clear protective sleeves; however, large portions of the collection remain loose. A few items that consist of multiple pages were found folded up inside their protective casings, so that they cannot be fully read without removing and unfolding them. The condition of the individual documents is variable, but all have evidence of their age, including discoloration, fading, cracking, and tearing. All records are very fragile and should be handled with care.

The documents in Series III are not as old as the rest of the collection: they are transcriptions of uncertain origin. Based on the paper used and the watermarks they contain, it is estimated that these documents originated around the turn of the 20th century. These papers were found loose in the collection and had plastic clips attached. These clips had caused noticeable warping, and thus were removed. The pages were instead interleaved with acid-free blank papers to prevent further damage.

Bartlett was responsible for selling captured vessels and their cargos, and he received a percentage of each sale.
