Historical Note

Beverly High School was first established in 1858 at the West Farms, with John R. Baker as the master. This location proved to be too far away from the center of the population, and in 1861 the high school moved to the Armory Building on Cabot Street. In 1875 it relocated to the old Briscoe building, which reached a space crisis by 1915. The demand for a bigger building was postponed because of the war and because of a still greater need of another grade school, but finally a site of seven acres was purchased at the junction of Sohier and Colon Street in 1921. New construction commenced in May 1922 and was completed in 1925. After four decades of further growth, a new Beverly High school and the associated Claude H. Patten Trade High School were constructed on a nearly 50-acre property at 100 Sohier Road in 1965. The current-day Beverly High School was built at the same location in 2011.

Scope and Content Note

Beverly High School Records consist primarily of a substantial (but incomplete) run of the student literary magazine, Aegis, in the years 1902 to 1971; sports photographs and memorabilia (especially for the football team; and photographs and memorabilia relating to graduation and alumni events. There are also a modest number of documents and photographs concerning school administration, coursework (including student essays on the history of the school), student activities, and school buildings.
